

>Prof. Sherrilyn Ifill

President and Director-Counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc. & Maryland Carey Law Professor.

Beyond Ferguson Series

“Police officers are agents of the state whom we have entrusted to take life. By not providing them with additional training to deal with issues, such as the ability to de-escalate or deal appropriately with the mentally ill, we are doing them an incredible disservice.”

www.law.umaryland.edu/Ferguson14

>The Hon. Brian E. Frosh

Maryland Attorney General

Ward Kershaw Lecture

“I will do everything I possibly can to help leverage the resources we have to have the maximum impact on protecting the Chesapeake Bay, enforcing the environmental law, and I will fight like hell to protect the health and safety of Marylanders.”

www.law.umaryland.edu/WardKershaw14

seen AND heard

Fedder Lecture & Wine Tasting

The Environmental Law Program combined two annual events into one wonderful evening in 2014. David Doniger, director and senior attorney for the Natural Resources Defense Council’s (NRDC) climate and clean air program, gave the Fedder Lecture focusing on current climate change policy. After the lecture, alumni, students, environmental law professionals, and friends of the program enjoyed fine wine and good conversation at the 23rd Annual Wine Tasting. Both events were supported by the Fedder Environmental Fund.

www.law.umaryland.edu/Fedder14

>Prof. Michael Pinard
The Baltimore Sun

“The legislators understand that individuals should be judged based on who they are rather than on a long-ago circumstance or simply their misfortune of interacting with the criminal justice system.”

Op-ed: “Moving Past the Stigma of a Criminal Record.”

www.law.umaryland.edu/ExpungeMD

>Prof. Michelle Harner
The New York Times

“When small and middle-market companies fail, families and founders often lose a business to which they have devoted not only most of their time but also most of their life savings.”

Op-ed: “A Bankruptcy Process that Works for Small and Midsize Companies.”

www.law.umaryland.edu/Ch11Reform

>Prof. Frank Pasquale
The New York Times

“Health information firms may suffer temporary reputation damage when data escapes, but the people identified by the data could be consigned to a lifetime of worry.”

Article: “Insure People Against Genetic Data Breaches.”

www.law.umaryland.edu/DataBreach

“As student attorneys, we have witnessed the stories of impoverished defendants who received preset bail and remained in jail. This practice seemed fundamentally wrong, and so we set out to find where judges get the power to order bail in the defendant’s absence.”

Op-ed: “Preset Bail Unfair to Low-Income Defendants.”

www.law.umaryland.edu/BailReform

>Nicole Burnette, Diana Griffin &
Stephen Thomas
Access to Justice Clinic Students
The Baltimore Sun

“History has demonstrated that policies that punish people for their drug use will do little more than increase the state’s criminal justice costs.”

Op-ed: “Reversing the Overdose Epidemic.”

www.law.umaryland.edu/DrugPolicy

>Prof. Ellen Weber
The Baltimore Sun

(from left to right) Dean Donald Tobin, Professor and Law & Health Care Program Director Diane Hoffmann, Yale Law Professor Abbe Gluck, retired U.S. Senator Paul Sarbanes (D-Md.), and Congressman John Sarbanes (D-Md.). Dean Tobin and Prof. Gluck served as staffers to Senator Sarbanes.

>Yale Law Prof. Abbe Gluck
2014 Rome Lecture

“This case is about the legislative context of the ACA, its statutory interpretation, its federalism story, and its agency implementation. It’s also a unique story about the politics of health reform, and it may, unfortunately, become the next Bush v. Gore.”

2014 Rome Lecture: “The Challenges of the Affordable Care Act in the Courts, the Congress and the States.”

www.law.umaryland.edu/Rome14