
JOURNAL OF HEALTH CARE LAW & POLICY

Volume 1

Number 1

Symposium:
“Conducting Medical Research on the Decisionally Impaired”

ARTICLES

- Regulation of Research on the Decisionally Impaired:
History and Gaps in the Current
Regulatory System Jonathan D. Moreno, PhD 1
- Issues Raised by Research Using Persons Suffering from Dementia Who Have Impaired
Decisional Capacity Peter V. Rabins, MD, MPH 22
- In Harm's Way: Research Subjects Who Are Decisionally Impaired Clarence J. Sundram, JD 36
- Assessment of Capacity to Give Consent to Research Participation: State-of-the-Art and Beyond Evan G. DeRenzo, PhD 66
Robert R. Conley, MD
Raymond Love, PharmD
- Protecting Vulnerable Research Subjects:
Practical Realities of Institutional Review
Board Review and Approval Alison Wichman, MD 88
- The National Bioethics Advisory Commission:
Bridging the Gaps in Human
Subjects Research Protection James F. Childress, PhD 105
- Proxy Consent to Participation of the Decisionally Impaired in Medical Research—Maryland's Policy
Initiative Diane E. Hoffmann, JD, MS 123
Jack Schwartz, JD
- Regulating Research with Vulnerable Populations:
Litigation Gone Awry John M. Oldham, MD 154
Stephan Haimowitz, JD
Susan J. Delano, BA Hons
- Achieving Proper Balance in Research
With Decisionally-Incapacitated
Subjects: NAMI's Perspectives on the Working Group's Proposal Laurie M. Flynn 174
Ronald S. Honberg, JD, MEd

Comments on the Second Report of the Maryland Attorney General's Research Working Group	Franklin G. Miller, PhD	193
---	--------------------------------	-----

NOTES

The Elderly Questionably Competent Client Dilemma: Determining Competency and Dealing with the Incompetent Client	Marilyn Levitt	202
Diagnostic Evidence Admissibility and the Multiple Personality Disorder Defense	Sabra McDonald Owens	236