

Andy King, associate professor, authored "Sunday Laws in the Nineteenth Century," in Religion and American Law: an Encyclopedia.

Susan Leviton, professor, presented "Juvenile Courts in the 21st Century: Where We've Been and Where We're Going," at the Wranglers Law Club on Dec. 16, 1999; "Should There Be Social Host Liability in Maryland," at the Park School, Feb. 3; and "Education as a Crime Prevention Strategy," at the Maryland Justice Policy Institute in Baltimore, Feb. 8.

Kimberly Moore, assistant professor, presented "Improving the Odds: Judges, Juries and Patent Cases," at the Med-tronic Intellectual Property Meeting in September 1999 and at the All Ohio Intellectual Property Law Conference in October 1999. She also presented "U.S. Business Model Patents," at the Nihon University Graduate School of Business in Tokyo in February.

Dana Morris, assistant dean, was appointed as the National Association for Law Placement's liaison to the ABA Commission on Opportunities in the Profession.

Joan O'Sullivan, assistant professor, is the chair-elect of the Association of American Law School's Section of Aging and the Law. She co-authored "The Increasing Medical Malpractice Risk Related to Pressure Ulcers in the United States," (with Richard D. Bennett, MD, Eric M. DeVito, JD, and Robin Remsburg, PhD, RN), in the 48 Journal of the American Geriatric Society 73, January 2000.

Robert Percival, professor, authored "Lights, Camera, (A Civil) Action!" 16 Environmental Forum 15 (March/April 1999). He presented "Global Environmental Accountability: The Missing Link in the Pursuit of Sustainable Development?" as the MacArthur Lecture at Bucknell University in April 1999; and "The Supreme Court's Laidlaw Decision," at the Supreme Court Institute, Georgetown University Law Center in January. Percival won the Amazon.com Award for the best-selling book in environmental law, Law and the Environment: A Multidisciplinary Reader.

Garrett Power, professor, presented "Shacks & Shanties, Huts & Hovels: Baltimore's 18th and 19th Century Slums," at People and Places in Time: Baltimore's Changing Landscapes Conference in September 1999.

Peter Quint, professor, authored "Judging the Past: The Prosecution of East German Border Guards and the GDR Chain of Command," in The Review of Politics, Vol. 61, No. 2 (1999). He is on the Board of Directors of the U.S. Association of Constitutional Law and on the Board of Editors of the American Journal of Comparative Law.

William Reynolds, professor, authored "Full Faith and Credit," Encyclopedia of the American Constitution (MacMillan) (with Richman). He is a member of the Maryland State Bar Association Ethics 2000 Committee.

Karen Rothenberg, interim dean, participated in the Millennium Series Celebration: "Informatics Meets Genomics: How Technology is Changing the 21st Century" in October 1999 at the White House.

Jana Singer, professor and associate dean, authored "Still Hostile After All These Years? Gender, Work & Family Revisited," 44 Villanova Law Review 297 (1999); and "Adoption, Identity and the Constitution: The Case for Opening Closed Records," 2 U. Penn J. Const. L. 150 (1999).

Edward Tomlinson, professor, authored "The French Penal Code of 1994," Vol. 31 of the American Series of Foreign Penal Code (Fred B. Rothman & Co., 1999).

Marley Weiss, professor, authored "The Supreme Court 1997-98 Labor and Employment Law Term (Part II): The NLRA, Takings Clause and ADA Causes," 14 The Labor Law 533-595 (1999). She is the chair of the U.S. National Advisory Committee to the U.S. National Administrative Office for the North American Agreement on Labor Cooperation.

Rena Steinzor, associate professor, presented "State Environmental Initiatives," sponsored by Resources for the Future, and was a speaker on the "Chairpersons' Panel," in Washington, D.C., Jan. 11.

Roger Wolf, professor, is the chair-elect of the Maryland Council on Dispute Resolution, a statewide group focused on dispute resolution.