THE EDITOR'S PAGE

The REVIEW is pleased to present two articles of practical importance in its Summer Issue, Mr. Robert E. Powell's "Consent to Operative Procedures" and Mr. Walter H. Maloney, Jr.'s "Racial and Religious Discrimination in Employment and the Role of the NLRB." Mr. Powell is a recent graduate of the School and a past Casenote Editor of the REVIEW. He has previously contributed to the REVIEW with his article "Admissibility of Hospital Records into Evidence" which appeared in 21 MARYLAND LAW REVIEW 22. His present article emphasizes the problems which confront the surgeon in relation to securing consent from a patient for a particular operation. Mr. Maloney is a newcomer to the REVIEW. He is a recent graduate of the University of Michigan Law School, and a member of the District of Columbia Bar. His article is a scholarly presentation of the development of the federal law respecting racial discrimination with special reference to the NLRB.

At this time the REVIEW is pleased to announce the Editors for 1961-62, who have been largely responsible for the Summer Issue: Editor, Lewis A. Noonberg; Casenote Editor, M. Albert Figlinski; Recent Decisions Editor, Thomas Waxter, Jr.; and Assistant Editors, Mrs. Lorraine Torek, Henry F. Leonnig, Ronald M. Naditch, and James P. Lewis.
