

Books Received

Follow this and additional works at: <http://digitalcommons.law.umaryland.edu/mlr>

Recommended Citation

Books Received, 33 Md. L. Rev. 125 (1973)

Available at: <http://digitalcommons.law.umaryland.edu/mlr/vol33/iss1/9>

This End Matter is brought to you for free and open access by the Academic Journals at DigitalCommons@UM Carey Law. It has been accepted for inclusion in Maryland Law Review by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@UM Carey Law. For more information, please contact smccarty@law.umaryland.edu.

Books Received

THE FUTURE OF FOUNDATIONS. Ed. by Fritz Heimann. Prentice-Hall, Inc. (1973). Through a collection of nine essays by scholars, a tax specialist and foundation presidents, this book examines the private foundation, weighing its tax-exempt status in light of its contributions to society.

THE IMPLOSION CONSPIRACY. By Louis Nizer. Doubleday & Company, Inc. (1973). A vivid portrayal of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, with a retracing of the events leading to their arrest, their trial and the futile attempts of their attorney to save them from execution.

INEQUALITY: A REASSESSMENT OF THE EFFECT OF FAMILY AND SCHOOLING IN AMERICA. By Christopher Jencks et al. Basic Books, Inc. (1972). After a most thorough research, this book attacks and attempts to overturn one of the basic precepts of liberal reform in our society when its authors conclude that even if the school structure of America could be reformed to ensure that every child received an equal education, society would become no more equal than at present.

MAXIMUM SECURITY. Ed. by Eve Pell. Bantam Books, Inc. (1973). By compiling a collection of letters and essays written by prisoners, this book has more than effectively accomplished its goal of depicting the dehumanization and destruction incident to the American penal system.

NO TIME FOR DYING. By Eddie Harrison and Alfred V. J. Prather. Prentice-Hall, Inc. (1973). The story of one man, convicted of murder and sentenced to death, and the prolonged battle for his life and his eventual victory.

PRISONERS IN AMERICA. Ed. by Lloyd E. Ohlin. Prentice-Hall, Inc. (1973). Although this book is but one more addition to the many recent works condemning the American penal system, it is somewhat novel in that it goes one step further, and through a collection of writings by experts in the field suggests possible alternatives to the present methods of punishment and rehabilitation.

SEXUAL FREEDOM AND THE CONSTITUTION. By Walter Barnett. University of New Mexico Press. (1973). An investigation into the constitutionality of the sodomy laws that still exist today, with particular attention to their effect on the fundamental civil rights of homosexuals.

UNACCOUNTABLE ACCOUNTING. By Abraham J. Briloff. Harper & Row, Inc. (1972). In an excellent and detailed exposé of the "Games Accountants Play," Mr. Briloff has meticulously described the many dubious, inconsistent and frequently incongruous accounting practices used today to prevent the profession and mislead the public.

WE MAINLINE DREAMS: THE ODYSSEY HOUSE STORY. By Judianne Densen-Gerber. Doubleday & Company, Inc. (1973). The story of the origins, struggles and development of the country's most successful program for curing drug addiction, as told by the program's founder, ex-addicts and professionals who run the operation.