CONCERNING THE REVIEW

New members of the Student Editorial Board, replacing those who have graduated, are John B. Fox, Abraham Light, and Kenneth F. McClure, of the Fourth Year Evening Class; William B. Kempton, Anthony W. Kraus, Jr., Victor H. Laws, and James B. Maginnis, of the Third Year Day Class; Joseph H. Grady, of the Third Year Evening Class; Clayton C. Carter, Richard W. Case, William B. Oswald, and John R. Royster, of the Second Year Day Class; and Francis E. Rugemer, of the Second Year Evening Class. Those of last year’s Board who are still in school are also serving this year.

NEWS OF THE BAR ASSOCIATIONS

At the request of the American Bar Association publication is made of the topic of the annual Ross Essay Contest for a prize of $3,000. The topic is: Prospective Development of International Law in the Western Hemisphere as Affected by the Monroe Doctrine. The contest is open to members of the American Bar Association; essays must be submitted by February 15, 1941; and further information may be obtained from the Executive Secretary, American Bar Association, 1140 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois.

The American Judicature Society, with headquarters at Ann Arbor, Michigan, has requested the Review to announce to its readers that any member of the Bar is entitled to receive the Journal of the American Judicature Society free, merely by addressing a request to that organization to be included on its mailing list. The Journal has resumed its policy of free distribution upon the recent termination of the arrangement whereby members of the American Bar Association received it through their membership in the latter organization. It is now available for free distribution to all lawyers, whether members of the American Bar Association or not, upon application to be listed to the address given above.
NEWS OF THE LAW SCHOOL

The enrollment in the Law School for the current academic year is 211, of whom 126 are in the Evening School, and 85 are in the Day School. The entering Evening School class includes 41 and that of the Day School has 32. Of the entire student body, 58% are residents of Baltimore City, 38% of the Maryland counties, and 4% of other States. Of the student body, 25% had their pre-legal training at the University of Maryland, and the remaining 75% had theirs at 54 various other colleges.

Several promotions have been announced on the full-time faculty. Messrs. Bridgewater M. Arnold and Russell R. Reno, formerly Assistant Professors of Law, have been made full Professors of Law. Mr. Frederick W. Invernizzi, formerly Instructor in Law, has been made an Assistant Professor of Law.

Professor Russell R. Reno, who was on leave of absence during 1939-40 for the purpose of doing post-graduate study at the Columbia University School of Law, has returned to the Law School and has resumed his courses in Property. Professor Reno, who was the incumbent of a research fellowship granted him by Columbia University, was awarded the degree of LL. M. at the conclusion of his year's study.

Several changes in courses at the Law School have been made, in addition to Mr. Reno's resumption of his courses in Property, taught during his absence by various other members of the faculty. The course in Administrative Law is now being taught by Professor Reiblich. Three courses taught during the previous year by members of the part-time faculty are now being given by members of the full-time faculty, viz., Legal Bibliography and Suretyship by Mr. Invernizzi, and the Day section of Mortgages by Professor Arnold. Professor G. Kenneth Reiblich, of the full-time faculty, has completed the manuscript of his Maryland Annotations to the American Law Institute's Restatement of the Law of Trusts, and they have already been published. The preparation of these Annotations was sponsored by the Maryland State and Baltimore City Bar Associations.

Professor John S. Strahorn, Jr., of the full-time faculty, is preparing a revised edition of his mimeographed Maryland Casebook on Domestic Relations, and it will first be used in that course in the forthcoming Spring semester.

Mr. Walter L. Clark, a member of the part-time faculty and Lecturer on Evidence in the Evening School, has been appointed by Governor O'Conor to be one of the Maryland Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

Mr. L. Whiting Farinholt, Jr., a member of last June's graduating class, and a former member of the Student Editorial Board of the Review, has been appointed Acting Instructor in Law for 1940-41 at the Law School of Mercer University, Macon, Georgia. Two others of last year's graduates, also former student editors, are pursuing further studies. Mr. J. Benson Saks is at Yale University School of Law, the incumbent of a Sterling Research Fellowship for graduate study; and Mr. John T. Fey is the holder of an Alumni Scholarship at the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration.
