20s

1923: Henry Glick at 94, is living in Pikesville, Maryland.

30s

1938: Retired New York Court of Appeals Judge Bernard S. Meyer's 80th birthday was celebrated with a party at the Nassau County Bar Association headquarters.

40s

1941: A. Freeborn Brown III was elected to the Maryland House of Delegates and was presented the "Man For All Seasons" award by the St. Thomas More Society of Maryland, Inc.

50s

1952: After 20 years, I. Sylvan Brown retired from the Superior Court of Arizona for Maricopa County. He has an office for dispute resolution in Phoenix.

60s

1953: Paul A. Pumppian was elected president of the D.C. Federation of Chapters of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees at the 1996 Biennial Convention. William H. Sandy retired as chairman and CEO of the publicly traded training company, Sandy Corporation, which was then merged into Automatic Data Processing.

1955: Alexander G. Jones, retired after thirty years as a country lawyer, serving eighteen years as a member of the Rules Committee of the Maryland Court of Appeals, two terms on the Board of Governors of MSBA, and as a fellow of both the Maryland Bar Foundation and the American College of Trial Lawyers.

1956: Henry C. Engel Jr. retired after serving 27 years as Hartford County's and the state's first chief public defender. He also served for three and one half years as jury master, and four years on the Board of Zoning Appeals.

1958: The Baltimore Zionist District held its 53rd Annual Brandeis Banquet where Carole and Hanan Y. Sibel received the Humanitarian Award for their many civic and charitable endeavors.

60s

1961: Judge Ronald T. Osborn announced his recent marriage to Yolanda (Yo) Ellmes.

1963: Mona S. Lambird is the first woman to serve as president of the Oklahoma Bar Association (1995-96), as well as the first woman president of the Oklahoma County Bar.

1964: Edward P. Grattan began a consulting firm, Graton Consulting in Clarkson Valley, Missouri, and Scottsdale, Arizona. He specializes in marketing law firms in Asia and technology transfer. Michael Trias moved to San Juan, Puerto Rico, to become a partner of Rodriguez, Mejia, Falcon & Trias. H. Rutherford Turnbull III is a trustee of the Judge David Bazelon Center for Mental Health Law after a three-year term as trustee and member of the executive committee of The Barstow School in Kansas City, Missouri. He is also co-director of Beach Center on Families and Disability, and professor of special education and law with The University of Kansas at Lawrence.

Together, with U.S. Senator Mark Hatfield he received the distinguished public service award of the Council for Exceptional Children. His nephew, Kenneth Turnbull, is a freshman at the University of Maryland School of Law.

1965: We recently heard Frederick T. DeKeuper twice won first-runner-up in the Washington Post Style Invitational Writing Contest. Winners are chosen for their originality and humor. "Red" is in the Office of the General Counsel at Johns Hopkins University. Barrett Freedlander remains a partner in the Baltimore law firm of Weinberg & Green while he has been retained by The Baltimore Life Insurance Company as general counsel and corporate secretary. He will oversee all corporate legal operations and act as the company's principal litigator. Sheldon P. Schuman's son, Jonathan R. Schuman '96, passed the Bar and has joined Schuman, Kane, Felts & Evergem Chhd.

1966: Judge Kathleen O'Ferrall Friedman of the Circuit Court of Baltimore City was elected president of the Maryland Circuit Judges Association for a two-year term.
Lockman to Continue as Head of the Law School Fund for 1997-98

Steven P. Lockman ’68 has agreed to stay on board to chair the Law School Fund for the next school year. Preliminary counts indicate that the 1996-97 Fund will meet expectations this year, continuing the example set by Graeme Bush ’76. The School of Law is graduating 250 new alumni each year and needs many new phonathon volunteers in order to reach everyone. Lockman asks that all alumni continue helping to create a larger annual fund by increasing their gift.

1968: John P. Corderman is attorney general for the Republic of Palau, newest nation with a seat in the United Nations. Edward M. Ranier is of counsel with Lord & Whip and was appointed by Maryland’s governor to chair the Task Force to Examine the State’s Occupational Safety and Health Law and the Task Force to Examine the State’s Cemetery and Funeral Industry.

1969: K. Donald Proctor announced the opening of his offices in Towson, Maryland. His firm’s primary practice includes business, commercial and real estate litigation. Thomas E. Spath is with the intellectual property firm of Abelman, Frye & Schwab in New York City where he practices chemical and general patents and trademark law.

1970: Walter E. Laake Jr. was elected president of the Prince George’s County Bar Association, president and managing director of Joseph, Greenwald & Laake, P.A., serves on the Board of Governors of the Maryland Trial Lawyers Association and is a life member of the American Trial Lawyers Association.

1971: E. Dale Adkins III, a partner at Anderson, Cole & King, was inducted a as fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers during their recent annual meeting in San Diego. Bruce A. Kaufman, along with Thomas C. Ries ’79 and Susan Carol Elgin, have formed the family law practice of Kaufman, Ries & Elgin, P.A. in Towson, Maryland. Mark H. Kolman is a partner at Dickstein Shapiro Morin & Oshinsky in Washington, D.C., where he specializes in insurance coverage litigation. John Corey Qua closed his Chicago office to return to Battle Creek, Michigan, where his new office location is pending. Ann McKinrick Turnbull practices domestic relations law in Towson. William I. Weston is associate dean and professor of law at Florida Coastal School of Law.

1973: The Honorable Albert J. Matriccian Jr. was appointed judge-in-charge of Domestic Matters for the Circuit Court of Baltimore City. William L. Witham Jr. was appointed to a second four-year term as trustee of the Delaware Technical Community College. Gordon A. D. Zubrod was appointed senior litigation counsel at the U.S. Department of Justice in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

1974: Christopher G. Gellner’s firm practices primarily in personal injury, bankruptcy, labor law and commercial litigation in Las Vegas, Nevada, where he has been since 1976. The Cushman, Darby & Cushman firm, an Intellectual Property boutique of 70 lawyers, merged with Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro, L.L.P.

Glenn J. Perry will continue his intellectual practice as a partner in the Cushman, Darby and Cushman Intellectual Property Group of Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro, L.L.P.

1975: The Honorable Sally D. Adkins, a partner of Adkins and Allen, in Salisbury, Maryland, was appointed Wicomico County Circuit Court judge by the governor. She is the first female judge to sit on any Eastern Shore District or Circuit Court. Merle Ann Beck, nee Achinstein, was promoted to associate city solicitor, head of the Legal Counsel Division, Office of the City Solicitor in Baltimore. Laura Effel is counsel to Baker & McKenzie in its New York office. Risselle R. Flesher retired from the Office of the Attorney General after seven years representing the MVA/MDOT.

1976: Stephen J. Nolan received the Maryland Legal Services Corporation’s “Arthur W. Machen Jr. Award” for an attorney who has rendered extraordinary service in providing or improving civil legal help and access to the poor. MLSC continued on page 32.

It’s Back to the Future for D.C. Area Alumni

The District of Columbia area alumni gathered in October to see “To Kill A Mockingbird” at Olney Theatre. After-theatre fare was served in the reception rooms next door. Professor Alan Hornstein led a discussion about the play, which Trent Kittleman ’91 said immediately put all of them back in the role of student again, raising hands and deliberating the play, its content, performance and relationship to our history. Steve Van Grack ’74, Roger Winston ’79, Donna McDowell ’82, Anne Brown ’94, Joann Langston ‘84 and Priscilla Milton ‘84 were just a few alumni who joined others to step back in time.

Above, Susan and Steve Van Grack ’74, Roger Winston ’79 and Donna McDowell ’82 help themselves to the buffet before discussing “To Kill A Mockingbird” with Professor Alan Hornstein.

Walter E. Laake