Cornell Law School
Professor Delivers Gerber Lecture

Professor Jonathan R. Macey of the Cornell Law School delivered The Pearl, Lawrence I. and Lloyd M. Gerber Memorial Lecture on October 24, 1996, at the Marshall Law Library. His talk on “Markets, Contracts and Fiduciary Principles,” was delivered to students, faculty, staff and alumni. The Gerber Lecture was established in 1977 by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Gerber and their children in memory of Mr. Gerber’s parents, and supports an annual lecture by a nationally prominent figure in the law.

Maryland School of Public Affairs
Professor Delivers Sobeloff Lecture

Professor William A. Galston of the University of Maryland at College Park School of Public Affairs delivered the Judge Simon E. Sobeloff Lecture on February 13, 1997, at the Marshall Law Library. He spoke to students, faculty, staff and alumni about “The Legal and Political Implications of Moral Pluralism.” The annual Sobeloff Lecture Fund was established in memory of Judge Simon E. Sobeloff by his family and friends.
