Practical and Legal Aspects of US-ROC Trade and Investment

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.law.umaryland.edu/mjil
Part of the International Law Commons, and the International Trade Commons

Recommended Citation
Available at: http://digitalcommons.law.umaryland.edu/mjil/vol3/iss1/12

This Conference is brought to you for free and open access by DigitalCommons@UM Carey Law. It has been accepted for inclusion in Maryland Journal of International Law by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@UM Carey Law. For more information, please contact smccarty@law.umaryland.edu.
II. PRACTICAL AND LEGAL ASPECTS OF US-ROC TRADE AND INVESTMENT

(2:30–5:00 p.m.)
April 15, 1977

The second session was opened by David Simon, Chairperson of the Conference. Mr. Simon welcomed the participants and introduced the Chairman of the second session, Oliver Oldman, Learned Hand Professor of Law and Director of the International Tax Program, Harvard Law School.

Professor Oldman stressed the importance of legal incentives to investment and trade, in terms of tax advantages and flexibility in corporate options, as well as the importance of viewing the ROC not as an isolated entity but as an active member of the international trading community, with the rights and duties that accompany such membership.

Following his introductory remarks, Professor Oldman introduced the session’s first speaker, Norman Littell. Mr. Littell, who practices law in Washington, D.C., spoke of his experiences as drafter of the ROC’s Foreign Investment Encouragement Law.

[The following is the text of Mr. Littell’s paper.]

(67)