EDITORIAL FOREWORD

This issue of the REVIEW, the fourth and last of Volume Twelve for 1951, consists entirely of the Cumulative Index of Volumes One through Twelve. It was decided to devote the fourth issue of Volume Twelve to the Index, both to expedite publication and to assure that all subscribers shall have access to it.

First is found the “Author and Reviewer” section, wherein are listed all names of authors of signed items, no matter of what nature, and also, the names of the authors of books reviewed.

Then follows the “Title” section, covering, by titles, all articles, editorials, comments and casenotes. Titles of books reviewed are listed in a later section.

Next is the listing of “Cases Noted”, both under the Appellants’ and Appellees’ names. It was decided not to attempt a list of cases cited, particularly as Shepard’s Maryland Citations furnishes this facility. Attention has earlier been called to the fact that this phase of the Shepard system affords an efficient way of locating Review material, through running down both case and statutory references.

Following is the list of "Book Reviews", by titles, the authors' names being found in the "Author and Reviewer" section, mentioned above.

After that is the Subject Index, which is the most novel in this Cumulative Index, in that the previous annual Volume indices had no such section, although they did break the material down under the headings set forth above. It should be noted that the references in each case are only to the initial page of the item indexed, rather than to the specific inside page where the particular point is treated.

Finally, as an Appendix without page numbering, is the Facsimile of the respective Table of Contents pages of the various issues of the Review. It was believed that reprinting these in this fashion would afford to the user of the Index a "bird's-eye view" of the whole output of the Review, and a chance to see whether a reference given only by Volume and Page is something that might bear on his problem.
